

Ep 8: Partnerships and the Personal Journey of Forthright People

How to establish a successful partnership

- Take the time to really get to know each other.
 - Spend the time to get to know each other as people.
 - Discuss openly how each of you will bring yourselves into the business.
- Make sure to have the tough conversations.
 - Don't avoid conflict. Respectfully debate tough points.
 - Check the ego, and be open.
- Define what you both bring to the table and what your roles will be.
 - Divide the roles and responsibilities according to passion and skill. Clearly define the overlap and where you will collaborate.
 - Trust. Get out of the way and don't undermine.
- You are peers, but you also have a lot to learn from each other. Mutual respect.
 - Seek to understand and appreciate each other's experiences.
 - Use the other for consult and feedback for personal growth.
